Please take a look at the attached AECD description Ford has provided. I'm looking it over and so far I think it looks reasonable. Let me know what you think.

Thanks

Steve

Steve,

I am attaching the AECD I referenced in the phone message. This new AECD was included as part of the 2015MY AECD deck update submitted into VERFIY by Travis Henney. We have worked on this strategy for some time and discussed with your predecessor but it not implemented into production due to delays in software development and validation testing. Our development teams would like to confirm acceptability of this feature so that it can be incorporated into the 2015MY programs. We are also looking to make this protection strategy available to earlier MY's that would be submitted separately via running changes.

I can walk you through the feature described in the attached write-up, you can review and let me know if you have questions, or we can setup a meeting.
